185 Doctors Arrive Here For Institute

The Postgraduate Institute sponsored by the California Medical Association returns to Carmel for the third consecutive year this week end, with headquarters at the La Playa Hotel and sessions at the Golden Bough Theater.

Some 185 medical men from west coast counties were due in town today, first day of the two-day convention. Heading a list of Peninsula doctors who will take active part in the meet is Dr. Edwin Tucker. The program this year is being presented by the UCLA School of Medicine.

Counties represented at the eighth annual institute are San Benito and Santa Cruz, in addition to Monterey. Besides the sessions in the theater, panels will convene in the La Playa garden and lounge.

Top social event on the convention calendar is a joint dinner with the Monterey County Medical Society tonight at 8:00 o'clock at Monterey Peninsula Country Club. Wives will attend and Dr. Ernest Simard of Monterey will preside.

Among other Peninsula doctors acting as hosts and presiding officials are, Doctors Marilyn D. Smith, William Harness, Osman H. Hull, Kenneth Francis, Daniel Waligora and James Niebel, all of Monterey.

Now We Have A Hot Potato Committee

James A. Moody wrote a firm letter to the city council about the pot holes in Eighth Street east of Junipero. It was read at last night's council meeting. The property owners along that part of Eighth, which is innocent of surfacing, should participate in improving the street, said Mr. Moody, who lives on Forest Avenue and drives down Eighth to go to town.

But the property owners don't want to "participate" (they to pay for materials, the city street department to do the work, Carmel's "co-operative plan" which has surfaced most of the city's residential streets.) Besides, that part of Eighth is very woodsy and if the street is "improved" out will go some of the trees, and the faster will go people who live on Forest Avenue and drive along Eighth Street to get to town. Eighth Streeters, like a lot of other thoughtful Carmelites, believe in pot holes for protection.

Councilman James Buffington reminded the other councilmen that they had made him take Eighth Street out of the major street improvement plan last fall. Floyd Adams, who lives on Torres street a block from Eighth and had worked strenuously to get Eighth out of the major street improvement plan, now said that rather than see it get back in, he'd contribute to have the street improved the Carmel way, on the co-operative plan.

A major street improvement is paid for through gas tax money and must be done according to state specifications, widening.

C-2 Property Owners Complain To Council Of Corporation Yard

C-2 District property owners asked the council, through their attorney Tom Perry, to consider doing something more attractive with the corporation yard on Junipero Street than using it for a corporation yard. Why not buy the lots behind the Youth Center for a corporation yard and build a city hall and police station on the present corporation yard site? he suggested.

Mayor John Chitwood thought it would be worth thinking over.

Highlands Zoning Expires In May

Carmel Highlands residents are protected by a six-month interim zoning code which will expire in May, Malcolm Millard, chairman of the Carmel Highlands advisory committee to the County Planning Commission, told the Highlands group at a meeting yesterday evening.

His report, prepared at the request of Highlands residents, said the code affects the area from the middle of the Carmel River south to the middle of Bixby Creek and provides for one residence per acre and preservation of the scenic coastline.

He said the present zoning is felt to be sufficiently flexible to satisfy everyone concerned and there is no reason to ask for change on the planning commission's master plan for the coastline.

Also reported at the meeting was approval by the planning commission of a trailer park south of Bixby Creek. Its location, however, is out of the jurisdiction of the Highlands zoning regulations. Building plans call for the park's location near the sea and out of sight of the highway.

A second speaker, Warren Edwards, principal of Carmel High School, gave the group a talk on the need for the bond and override tax for the school district.

Carmel Portraits . . .

BY DAISY BOSTICK

The A. T. Shands, both Marian and Trev, arrived in Carmel in 1921. That makes them thirty-seven years old to us old-timers. He was a fine figure of a young man and Marian was a bonny lass. In the true romantic fashion they met, fell in love and got married. They have ever been noted for their hospitality, were friends to many and held open house most of the time. Through the years they built up a lucrative real estate business and took an active part in the social, political and cultural life of the village. What more can you want in the character of two citizens? And who more deserving of a column in the Pine Cone?

The Shand firm is now being taken over by Robert E. Ross. The old sign will remain but the Ross sign will appear in another window. Trev's feet will still be under his old desk with his realtor's license hanging on the wall. I suppose that if he wants to sell a tract of land he can do so but I have a hunch that the old location will be used mostly as a place for meeting old friends and swapping stories. Of course Marian will be around if she is needed.

Everyone around here has always known Arthur Trevelyn Shand as just Trev. That is, everybody but Perry Newberry, who insisted on calling him Art. But Trev or Art, he was quite a character in those early days. I knew him as a dapper blue-eyed young man who operated out of the real estate firm next door to the Pine Cone where I filled in my time. We were then on Ocean Avenue. A grocery was on the corner where now stands the Bank of Carmel. Next door was the Pine Cone office and printing plant, and then came the real estate office where Trev hung out. He would catch me dashing in and out between assignments with, "Say, you, have you heard that new story about

Carmel Choirboy Home To Autograph Jazz Disk

Singer Jerry Madison was in Carmel for three days this week broadcasting, being interviewed on radio and TV, autographing his new jazz record, Afraid to Love You.

Lean, blonde, brown and handsome, with his mother's very blue eyes, there is slight wonder that he counts eight 'teen age fan clubs in Sacramento alone.

His mother is Roxy Jensen. He is Robert Jensen, and you saw him grow up here. All Saints' Church parishioners heard him, in their choir, go through the stages of boy soprano, alto, baritone, and tenor. At each stage they said, "That boy has a future." He sang in Bach Festival chorus and ensembles. He sang at the Carmel Mission in an Ave Maria concert, "And I got the prettiest," he recalls, "the Schubert." He was called upon to sing solos in programs for the benefit of this and that around town. He was a big attraction, singing and dancing in the Denny-Watrous productions at the First Theater. Meanwhile, he studied with retired opera singer and teacher Rachel Morton, who was then a Carmel resident.

Bob graduated from Carmel high school in 1947 and attended Hartnell in Salinas for two years. Then, after a while, people began to notice he wasn't around. "Where's Bob?" they'd ask Roxy when they came to eat at her Carmel Delicatessen. Bob was in Santa Barbara, he'd won a scholarship at the Music Academy of the West; Bob was in Los Angeles with the Civic Light Opera Company; in San Francisco, with same; in New York, playing the romantic lead in The King and I; on the night club circuit, with the Vaughn Monroe show; as singing partner for Janice Page on six months tour.

In the picture above, Coach Dan Yurkovich of the Carmel Padres inspects the trophies which will be awarded to the winners of the Carmel Invitational Basketball Tournament which is slated for the Carmel High Gym today, tomorrow and Saturday. The towering trophy in the middle is the Peter Ferrante Perpetual Trophy which has been donated by Mr. and Mrs. Peter Ferrante since the start of the tournament in 1946. Schools vieing for the above gold will be Pacific Grove, Monterey, Junipero, Gilroy, Gustine, Gonzales, Fremont (Sunnyvale), and host Carmel. See story page two.

CARMEL'S 11th ANNUAL BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT SET FOR THIS WEEKEND

Varsity basketball teams from seven high schools start converging on the Carmel High gym this afternoon for a weekend of play in the annual Carmel hoop festival. Initial action gets underway at 4:30 when Marty Baskin's Pacific Grove Breakers match shots with Coach Ed Larsh's potent Monterey Toreadores. While Monterey handled the Breakers rather easily in a recent practice game it means little or nothing when the teams square off in tournament play. Upsets are the rule rather than the exception in the Carmel tourney where every team is feared and respected. Thursday's 6:00 o'clock game matches Coach Ron Beliecki's Catholic League champions from Junipero Memorial against the Gonzales Spartans coached by Buddy Guiterrez. Junipero has lost only two games all season and the Cardinals are considered one of the best teams in this section. Gonzales had a mediocre season this year but the Spartans are always dangerous with their terrific speed and team spirit. Defending champion Fremont draws Coach Bob Hagen's Gilroy Mustangs in Thursday's 7:30 game and this one should be a toss-up affair. Fremont has won the Carmel Tournament five times and comes in again this year with a poised and confident ball club. Coach Ray Snyder's charges started slow this season but started moving into high gear toward the end of the season and are in prime shape for the tournament. Gilroy won the CCAL B-division championship this year and figures to give Fremont a terrific tussle for the right to play in the championship bracket. Host Carmel plays the late shift Thursday night, meeting Coach Jerry Hedlind's fast-breaking Gustine Indians at 9:00 o'clock. Dan Yurkowvich's Padres came with a rush in late season games and could provide a few surprises for some of the big ones in the tournament. Equipped with excellent shooting and good drivers, Carmel's varsity quintet needs only to flash a stronger defense to offer a challenge for some of the tournament blue chips.

Hoop stars galore will be taking their best shots during the year's tournament as the players vie for handsome team trophies and the coveted individual awards which go to the most valuable player, the all-tourney five, and the champs. On team balance, one has to pick the Monterey Toreadores as favorites to finish in front of the field in this year's tourney. With such good ones as Mel Sory, Claud Crabb, and Mike Maoriana leading the way, the Green & Gold crew proves a tough one to hurdle. Pacific Grove's top performers are Art Drummond and Ron Gravelle. Drummond was an all-league selection this season and has been the big spark for the Breakers. Junipero's Larry Lotten was an all-Catholic league selection and led the Cardinals in scoring and rebounding this season. Big man in the Gonzales attack is Glen Cooper, a 6-6 pivotman, who is one of the few preps in this area capable of stuffing the ball through a ten-foot high basket. Fremont's Tom Ross is a 6-5 center who was consistently one of the best in the fast Santa Clara Valley League this season. Gilroy's Dick Smith topped the B-division in scoring this season and is one of the most colorful players in Northern California. An amazing jump-shot artist, Smith has all the moves of a great basketball player and was the power in the Gilroy team the past season. Gustine presents a fast well-balanced squad led by a pair of front-line speedsters, Davenport and Bizzini. These lads trigger Coach Hedlind's fast-break attack and are both excellent shooters. Dale Dawson and Bill Hicks provide a good one-two punch for the Padres, hitting well from the outside and being adept on the close-in drives. Dawson was runner-up to Smith for the B-league's top scorer this season and was an all-league selection. Hicks was picked on the B-league second team and was well up with the leaders in this season's scoring race.

PADRES SPLIT WITH HOLLISTER IN FINAL

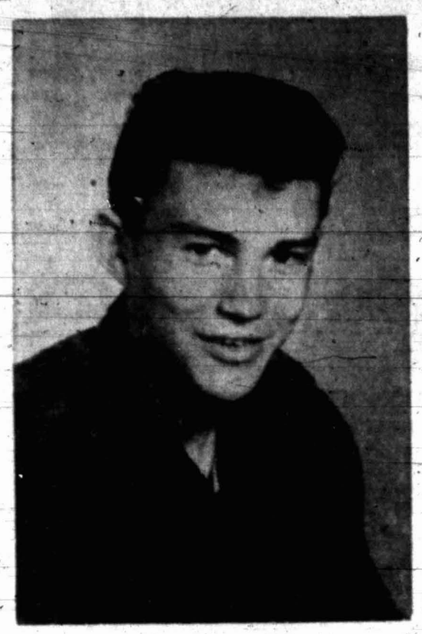
Carmel High's basketball squads wound up league action for the 1957-58 season last Friday night at the Carmel High pavilion, dropping a 60-44 decision to the Hollister Haybalers in the varsity clash, whipping the Hayseeds, 39-38 in the lightweight division, and copping the junior-varsity fray, 51 to 45.

The Big Padres made a better game of it against the Haybalers than in the first-half meeting when Hollister routed the Padres, 80 to 46. Coach Yurkovich's charges were in the running for the first three quarters but were snowed under by Hollister's brilliant last-quarter rush. Dave Grow and Bill Engler were the big wheels in the Hollister attack, both hitting for 17 markers. Dale Dawson's 15 points led the Carmel scorers.

Carmel's lightweight squad avenged an early-season loss to the Hollister Babes by squeaking by the swift Hayseeds, 39 to 38. A fine 16-point scoring effort by Russ Wise sparked the Padre Babes to the coveted win. Hustling defensive play by Pat Boyle, Mike Draper, and Ron Faia contributed to the Carmel victory.

Carmel's junior varsity overcame a 16-2 first-quarter handicap to bounce back for a big win against the Hollister reserves. Craig Smith, Hal Gregerson, and Ron Hinchcliffe put on a stellar second-half shooting exhibition to upset the visiting jayvees. Smith, a newcomer to basketball this season, pushed through 20 points, Gregerson got 16, and Hinchcliffe hit on 5 20-footers for 10 points. Top rebounding jobs by the Wilkin twins, John and Chris, gave the Carmel reserves good backboard control.

Final league standings find the Gilroy Mustangs on top in the varsity division with a 13-1 record. In the lightweight class, Live Oak of Morgan Hill compiled a 12-2 record to finish well in front. Carmel's varsity squad finished league play with a 7-7 mark which was good enough for the third place. The Carmel lights had an 8-6 league record and a tie for second place in the final league standings.



The young man pictured above is Dick Smith of Gilroy High School, who will lead the Mustang cagers in the Carmel Tournament on this week end. Dick and his Gilroy mates are CCAL B-League champions this year and have set their sights on winning the Carmel Hoop Festival. Experts concede that this junior hoop star is the top basketball player this side of San Francisco and may be the best in Northern California. Gilroy is slated to play Fremont High at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

COACHES AND SPORTSWRITERS PICK ALL-CCAL HOOP SQUAD

Coast Counties Athletic League coaches and sportswriters gathered for a dinner meeting last Monday night to honor outstanding CCAL basketball players with positions on the mythical all-league squads. Carmel's varsity quintet placed Dale Dawson on the first team and Bill Hicks on the second unit. Dale was an unanimous choice for a first string berth and the hustling junior will be back for more action next season. Hicks is also a junior and will provide welcome experience to next year's Padre quintet. Russ Wise and Walt Helm were selected for the lightweight second unit.

The first team varsity squad consisted of Gilroy's Dick Smith and Mel Bruton; Hollister's Roger Grimsley, Dave Grow, and Bill Engler; San Lorenzo's Jim Vessels; and Carmel's Dale Dawson. The top lightweight squad was manned by San Lorenzo's Gary Chandler; Live Oak's Gary Dauberg and Warren Nishahara; Hollister's Marvin Grimsley; Pacific Grove's Bucky Boynes; Gilroy's Gary Sacco; and James Avecella from Gonzales.

FORMER CARMELITES IN CAL RUGBY GAME

Two ex-Carmel football players will be facing each other on the field of battle this Saturday, when the California and Stanford Rugby teams meet.

Kurt von Meier, '52 Carmel quarterback, is now playing center on the Cal team, and Kyrk Reid, '55 Carmel backfield man, is a front rank player on the Stanford team.

Most people take water for granted—until they are deprived of it. As long as there is an abundant supply and it is easily available, its true value is not fully appreciated. Water has to be brought from many miles away, it has to be tested constantly for its purity, and it arrives in your home "special delivery" at the lowest possible cost. Millions of dollars have been spent in order to provide you with one of the finest water supplies in the land.

Perhaps if we thought occasionally of what it would be like to be without water, we would be more appreciative that we have all we want, when we want it, and for such a nominal price.

Print Shoes, Print Dresses In Fashion-Show At La Playa

A capacity crowd saw spring fashions last Thursday noon at the La Playa Hotel when the Cinderella Shop, James Rowe's Village Shoe Tree, and Evelyn Young's House of Flaire presented Fashions on a New Plane, sponsored by The Lighthouse Keepers.

An overflow throng of fashion-minded guests saw the new shorter skirts, the lowered waistline, the blouson top, the much-heralded chemise and such 1958 style highlights as day and afternoon shoes of blue and white striped linenized silk, and other shoes of rose print tapestry. Blue, blue and white, navy and white, and a new "hot" orange—persimmon—were the colors most stressed. The print, embroidery and pattern interest found this spring in shoes was repeated in dresses — pattern on all types from the lined jackets of day costumes to the over-all print and evening dresses.

Millinery, always an important item just before Easter, was exemplified by "birdcage veils"—airy cocktail and dinner 'hats' of net with minute velvet bows; by the organza bow hat, and by flower and chiffon draped straws shown in a range of spring hues, including "orange sherbet," the millinery version of persimmon.

An important fashion note stressed, too, was jewelry in a color theme intended to repeat a costume's tones — amethysts with lavender, emeralds with lime green, and so on.

Alice Gentle

Opera star Alice Gentle, who appeared with Caruso and others during her long career as a celebrated mezzo-soprano, died February 28 in an Oakland hospital following a long illness.

In private life she was Mrs. Jacob Proebstel, who with her husband operated the Country House, a cottage hotel in Monte Vista, Monterey. She had lived in Carmel a brief time, following sale of the business.

Born Alice True in Chatsworth, Illinois, June 30, 1888, Miss Gentle moved at an early age with her family to Seattle, where she began her singing career in church and school musical affairs.

Later she went to New York to study and there entered the chorus of the Manhattan Opera Company, making her debut as a principal with the group in 1909.

She sang with the Hammerstein Company in London, appeared in light opera, and made her Italian debut at La Scala, Milan, in 1917. On November 15 of the following year she made her debut with the Metropolitan Opera Company in Forza del Destino with Caruso.

She was subsequently a member of the Chicago Opera Company, the Scotti Company, and the San Carlo, Ravinia, Havana, Los Angeles and San Francisco Companies, completing many successful tours here and in Europe.

She and her husband moved to the Peninsula in 1950 after living in Santa Cruz and Laguna Beach. Miss Gentle had been ill for the past eight years with a rare anemia which required many blood transfusions.

Surviving her are her husband; a son, Bruce McFarland of Hollywood; and two sisters, Mrs. Maude S. Kah and Mrs. Edna T. Cann, both of Monterey. She requested no funeral services be held and asked that her body be given to the University of California research laboratories and her eyes to an eye bank.

Isabel Gartner

Mrs. Isabel Gartner of Pebble Beach died February 28 in a local hospital. A resident of the Peninsula for the past 11 years, she was born March 17, 1871, in St. George, Azores Islands. She made her home with a daughter, Mrs. Joseph Martin.

Other survivors include granddaughters, Mrs. Eugene Rowe of Menlo Park and Mrs. John Stewart of Santa Clara; six great grandchildren and seven great great grandchildren. Funeral services were held Monday at Mission Mortuary with Dr. K. Fillmore Gray of the Church of the Wayfarer officiating.

Dudley Nix Bringing Tunnel Of Love Here

After two seasons in New York and six months in San Francisco, The Tunnel of Love, comedy by Joseph Field and Peter De Vries, comes to Carmel and the Sunset Auditorium for two nights only on March 18 and 19, under the local management of Dudley Nix.

The story of The Tunnel of Love revolves around Augie and Isolde Poole and their close friends, the Peppers, who live next door to each other in the artists' colony in Westport, Connecticut. Augie and Isolde, after five years of marriage, find themselves in the hands of an adoption agency to assist them in securing a baby, while their friends, the Peppers, have a growing family of several youngsters and are expecting. The hilarious action of the play unfolds as the private lives of the Pooles, as well as their references, the Peppers, must pass under the microscope of case workers from the adoption agency.

Co-starring in The Tunnel of Love are Russell Nype, and William Bishop. Also featured are Nancy Hadley, Hollis Irving, Narda Onyx and Elsa Walden.

Marjorie Hamer

Private funeral services were held Tuesday morning for Miss Marjorie C. Hamer, a co-owner of the Blue Bird Restaurant and former educator, who died March 1 following an illness.

Born June 26, 1906, in St. Joseph, Missouri, she received a bachelor of arts degree from the University of Wisconsin in 1931, and an M.S. at the same school the following year. She became dean of women at State Teachers' College, Dillon, Montana, in 1933, following graduate work at Columbia University.

From 1943 to 1946 she served first as a club director for the American Red Cross in England and then as personnel director with the ETO, headquarters in Paris.

After the war, Miss Hamer returned to her Montana position, coming to Carmel in 1948 where she became part owner of the Blue Bird. From 1952 to 1957, she operated Le Gourmet in the Pine Inn, returning to her partnership in the Blue Bird early last year.

She is survived by a brother, David Hamer of Kansas City. Officiating at the Tuesday rites was Dr. Joseph M. Ewing of the Carmel Presbyterian Church, with the Paul Mortuary in charge.

Friends may make contributions in Miss Hamer's memory in the form of donations to the Carmel chapter of the American Red Cross.

Mrs. Goodwin

Final rites were solemnized in Minneapolis Monday for Mrs. Margaret Goodwin of Monterey Peninsula Country Club, who died February 27 in Minneapolis of a heart ailment while visiting her sister, Mrs. Dorothy Fraser.

Mrs. Godwin was the widow of Vernon Goodwin, former manager of Yellowstone Park. She had lived in the Country Club area for the past 28 years. She also leaves a stepson and stepdaughter, Vernon Goodwin of Seattle, and Mrs. Barbara G. Taft of Belvedere.

ON AUDUBON CALENDAR

The Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society will hold a regular meeting Friday night at 8:00 o'clock in the Carmel High School library, with Dr. Henry M. Weber speaking on conservation of the dove population. Saturday marks the group's field trip to Big Sur State Park. Members planning to attend will meet at Highway 1 and Carmel Valley Road at 9:00 o'clock, according to Jim Blee, leader of the trip.

A second principal event on the Friday evening agenda will be a half-hour color and sound movie by Pacific Gas and Electric Company called, Sierra Fish and Game. The talk on dove protection will be presented in answer to the sportsmen's viewpoints expressed at the last meeting.

Ruptured Men Get $3.50 Gift for Trying This

Kansas City, Mo.—Here is an improved means of holding rupture that has benefitted thousands of ruptured men and women in the last year.

Inconspicuous, without leg straps, elastic belts, body encircling springs or harsh pads, it has caused many to say, "I don't see how it holds so easy. I would not have believed, had I not tried it."

So comfortable — so easy to wear—it could show you the way to joyous freedom from your rupture trouble.

You can't lose by trying. It is sent to you on 30 days trial. You receive a $3.50 special truss as a gift—for making this trial.

Write for descriptive circular. It's free. Just address Physician's Appliance Company, 9091 Koch Bldg., 2906 Main, Kansas City 8, Missouri.

Glenn Clairmonte Reports

New York City,
February 26, 1958.

Dear Wilma:

Every time you open your columns to me I receive a flurry of letters from Carmel friends, and that is certainly heartwarming.

After that magnificent canoe-camping trip in Maine last summer, of course I didn't deserve another vacation so soon. But in the middle of a New York blizzard I received an invitation to visit friends from India who are now in the West Indies, and who am I to resist temptation? I reached Barbados on the plane with Billy Graham and therefore was met with banners and photographers.

My choice of activities was to lie dreamily on cushiony swells in the 80° ocean, but I didn't miss any social events. The best was my host's Sunday open house for both blacks and whites — swimming, cocktails, sandwiches, and brilliant conversation. Many whites on the island do not get acquainted with the native professional men and women, thus missing a great opportunity.

The island has handsome wooded hills (one famous for pottery) as well as beaches where thousands of exquisite shells can be picked up. There is a reef around the major part of the island between the dark-blue and the turquoise-colored waters closer to shore. Once two whales unwittingly were caught inside this, and while they swam about trying to find an outlet, the residents watching them phoned ahead to their friends who were able to leave their dinners and rush to look. On another day some neighbor told my hostess that a shark was in the water where her husband was swimming. She could not attract her husband's attention from the shore, so she swam out to tell him of his danger — only to have him cry, "Then what the . . . are you doing here?" Sharks are not supposed to get inside the reef.

It was harvest time in the cane fields, and some of the standing crop was burned for quick handling. The smiling blacks cut the ripe stalks and stacked them in trucks for rushing to be processed and exported to tank ships as molasses.

The chief potter of Barbados makes more flower pots than anything else, but now and then he indulges in statues of his cat or ashtrays for the tourist trade. A San Diego artist who has decorated the best hotels there has a "pioneer industry," silk-screening Barbados scenes on table linen, and he pays heavy customs duties not only on materials but on freight charges too. Incidentally he also grows several varieties of orchid, some of them fragrant, believe it or not.

One couple has started a huge plant for freezing the delicious white flying fish and exporting them in cellophane packets to New York — the first time, I understand, that flying fish have been obtainable in the States. Another favorite food there is dolphin. All oranges are imported from Trinidad, and there would be no greens if every house didn't have a garden for leaf lettuce, beans, and the rare tomatoes. My hosts raise ducks to give to their neighbors, and while I was there sixty-four eggs were hatched. (They also had four new kittens, and people accepted them promised to contribute to the S.P.C.A.) Most "necessities" like Kleenex are imported and cost twice as much as in the States. Since not many ships arrive, the one super market often has empty shelves, and therefore housewives usually grab cans of food when they see them. Nevertheless, I attended some gourmet banquets, and liquor flowed copiously.

There is no radio — only a telephone-wire subscription arrangement called rediffusion, and one program. If there doesn't happen to be a cricket match to report on Saturday, a good-music program is presented that hour. One BBC news broadcast informed us that an English statesman thought President Eisenhower's letter to Russia "excellent." Very gratifying, I'm sure.

The British West Indies are now a Federation, to be inaugurated at a festival in Trinidad next April. Lord Hailes, the new Governor-General, stepped off his ship into a barge one hot morning and amid gun salutes was landed at the careenage. He was sweltering in high black helmet with white ostrich plumes, riband across his chest, silver stars and medals (while the common folk were comfortable in sleeveless shirts and shorts). He reviewed the white-helmeted police on handsomely matched horses, was given an elaborate garden party at Government House and countless other tokens of esteem.

The same week a beauty queen was elected, and the pre-Lent Carnival was held. Along the narrow streets of Bridgetown natives paraded in gay costumes and Presleyed as steel bands rode by in trucks. A Boy Scout official from England arrived and was feted at the Marine Hotel by the local Boy Scout Council, my hostess and I welcome guests. As a benefit for the YWCA a very elegant fashion show was staged, displaying surprising talent. (By the way, the YWCA ceramics class needs a potter's wheel in case any philanthropist would like to donate $25.)

I returned to New York two days after the nine-inch snow and found that the elevator man had separated my mail into neat piles on my desk: letters, cards, ads, magazines—and Pine Cones. That evening there was a joint dinner of the Appalachian Mountain Club and the Atlantic Chapter of the Sierra Club (of which I am secretary), and those outdoor people appreciated my blaring suntan. The next day there was a California Alumni luncheon in honor of Stan McCaffrey of Berkeley, the University's new Vice President. He described the staggering changes on our eight campuses. Because I had last seen him in Carmel, he told me of Remsen Bird's valiant efforts to persuade the University to choose the Monterey Peninsula for the projected new campus. A classmate ('23) nominated me as vice president of Pacific Coast Displaced Persons (a New York organization in which all members are vice presidents).

Three publishers had marked on their calendars the date of my return, so began work at once. Right now I'm editing a life of Mrs. Langtry, the Jersey Lily, for Prentice-Hall, so I'd better sign off with a handclasp for each of my dear Carmel friends.

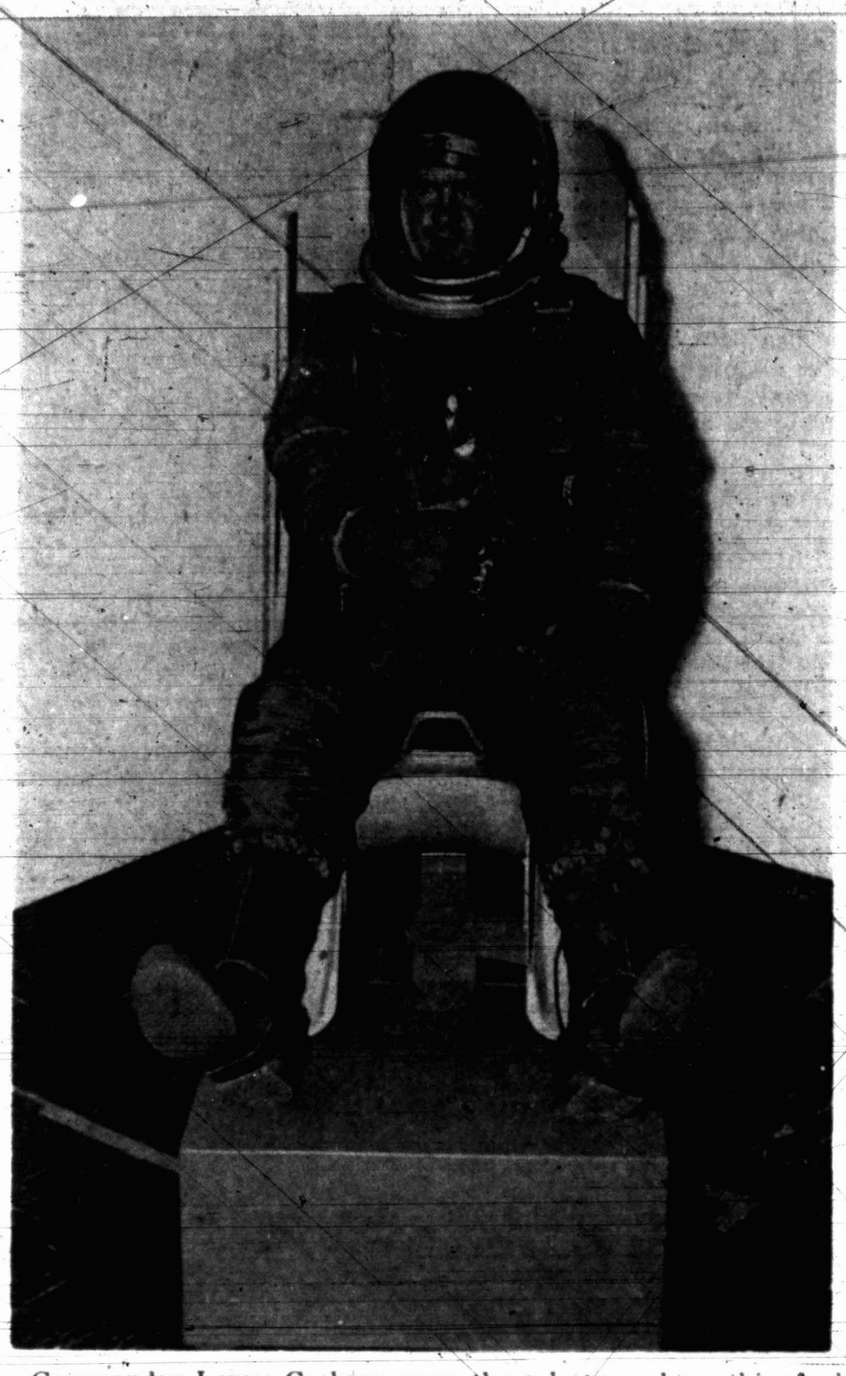
VESPER SERIES

Fred Beidleman will be organist for the third concert in this year's Lenten series at the Church of the Wayfarer, March 12 at 5:15 o'clock. He will have two vocal soloists, Dorothy Bixby Petersen and Dorothy Henderson, both sopranos.



Commander Leroy Cochran gave three lectures here this week on the effects of high altitude flight and the equipment the Navy uses to combat them. Tuesday morning he spoke at Sunset School, Tuesday night at the Carmel Lions Club meeting at Tom's Cafe, Wednesday at the high school and this noon at the Monterey Rotary luncheon.

Commander Cochran is a former Olympic champion. He won the 400 meter hurdle in the 1948 Olympic Games in London, representing the Los Angeles Athletic Club. He has a doctorate in physiology from U. S. C. and is the officer in charge of the aviation physiological unit at the North Island Navy Air Station at San Diego.

William Wakefield, Carmel Recreation Director, who competed with Commander Cochran in track when they were both stationed at the Great Lakes Naval Air Station during the war, interested him in coming to Carmel to give the talks and demonstrations.

Archer And Gile Monday Attraction For Concert Assn.

Frances Archer and Beverly Gile, vocalists of international songs and ballads, will be presented by the Monterey Peninsula Community Concert Association on Monday evening at 8:15 o'clock at the Pacific Grove High School Auditorium.

This duo have been singing together for five years and have appeared on many radio and television shows. They appeared in the musical production entitled The Ballad and the Tale for which they arranged and sang all the music.

They made their New York debut in Town Hall in October 1955 and were warmly received.

The program includes songs from many different countries, all sung in the original language, with guitar accompaniment.

Planners' Doings . . .

Elections, signs, permits and procedure occupied Carmel planning commissioners in their regular session last week.

A sign, or signs, 16 square feet in area, of carved or painted wood, shall be permitted in the Carmel business district, providing the paint is non-reflective, was the recommendation Carmel planning commissioners gave to City Attorney John Morse. All other signs must be reviewed by the planning commission was the corollary recommendation made by the commission. These definitions are to be incorporated by Mr. Morse into a preliminary draft for a sign ordinance which will be acted upon by the city council. The 16 square feet area will be confined to one business occupancy.

Signs painted on the surface of a business district building shall also be 16 square feet in area and of non-reflective paint and need not be reviewed by the commission. Commissioner Herbert Blanks urged that other surface signs should be considered in relation to the size of a building and whether it faced on more than one street, and that all signs be predominately descriptive of the business occupancy. He also stated that the proposed sign ordinance state that any supporting or sustaining structure or sign ornamentation should be considered as part of the 16 square feet area. An amortization clause to control existing signs in excess of 16 square feet and of undesirable materials was also under consideration by commissioners.

"Our aesthetics are our economics," stated Commissioner Florence Josselyn in support of the planning commission's stand to limit all business district signs to 16 square feet of desirable materials.

In other planning commission regular session business yesterday afternoon George Willox was re-elected commission chairman, Fred Keeble, vice chaiman, Larry Rose, secretary and Mrs. Florence Josselyn and Mr. Willox accepted reappointment to the commission for four years.

Building permits were granted to Richard Catlin and Sumral Otrich for motels and to Barney Laiolo for remodelling the former foreign car center at San Carlos and Third Streets to house his Village Electric retail store.

The steering committee was officially adopted in addition to the three basic planning commission committees (Land Use, Public Improvements and Architectural).

From now on planning commission business will first go to one of these three committees made up of two commissioners, receive study to be embodied in a report to the steering committee, made up of one member from each of the three basic committees. The steering committee will resolve any problems and present a report to the planning commission for action in regular sessions. No business shall come before the planning commission at its regular session, except for reference to committee. Building plans requiring commission action shall be given the building inspector or his agent by the second Wednesday of each month.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg

Eloise is back again for a repeat performance of her hour of charm. This time the title is Eloise in Paris. The author is Kay Thompson, as before, and the artist is Hilary Knight, just as before, and you will be delighted, ditto.

Elsa Maxwell has a new book entitled How to Do It, or the Lively Art of Entertaining. If this is your dish, please come to the party and enjoy it.

Teach Yourself to Relax is by Dr. Josephine Rathbone, who is a teacher at Columbia University. Here you are given practical formulas for relaxation. The index is helpful for the reader who wants to check things rather than doing the entire book. The author's style is conversational and written for the layman.

The name of Nathan Leopold needs no identification. His book, Life Plus 99 Years, tells the story of what happened to him after the performance of the crime for which he was sentenced in 1925. Recent news items telling of his parole will make this book of intrest to more people than might otherwise have been attracted to it.

Mr. Lincoln's Washington is another of those large pictures-with-text books. It covers events in Washington from 1861 through 1865. The jacket blurb tells us that there are 250 illustrations which have been reproduced from photographs and drawings. The many cartoons show the feeling of the times and public reaction to the policies of President Lincoln.

Justice William O. Douglas was selected in 1957 to give the 12th series of North Foundation lectures at Franklin and Marshall College. The three lectures are the basis of his book The Right of the People. The right is defined as individual liberty and the problem of retaining this liberty in a democracy is the one which Justice Douglas discusses in the book.

Reading for Pleasure, that happy phrase, is the title of a recent compilation by Bennett Cerf. From the works of a wide variety of authors, Mr. Cerf has chosen these pieces and for them he has written an introduction, along with various short comments upon certain of the selections. Here is pleasurable reading for many a long evening, all chosen for you by a man who loves books.

New this week also is Peter Freuchen's Book of the Seven Seas. This is an amazing book. True tales and legends, facts and superstitions, voyages, battles, treasures lost and found, all the lore of the seven seas, are included in this huge book.

There are ten new novels, including two mysteries. All for you.

Carmel Portraits . . .

the traveling man? It goes like this . . ." Then there would be some whispering, with sly glances around to see if anyone was listening, and after a gulp of laughter from him and a titter from me, he would rush out to sell another lot.

On the night that the Pine Cone was printed almost the whole male population turned out to help fold papers. The type was handset and the papers—one sheet at a time—had to be fed to the press with editor Bill Overstreet supervising everything. Then came the grand celebration of the week, the folding. Trev was usually on hand, but he told more stories than he folded papers. Argyll Campbell dropped in after a hard day's work in court. Doc Kibbler always had to be the first to scan the headlines. Everything was gay and festive. Ivy Basham would tote coffee from her restaurant across Ocean Avenue. Trev would take her aside and give her the latest on the traveling man. Ivy would giggle, go back to the restaurant and bring another round of coffee. Oh, those happy, utterly irresponsible, carefree days! Days of fun and laughter! But I do digress.

Trev was a many-sided person. Sharp as tacks in a business deal, loyal to friends and intensely happy when he could find an excuse to get out of town and observe the wild life. He had just promoted the sale of Aguajito, by Will Jacks to E. L. Tobin, president of the Hibernia Bank of San Francisco. The tract was a primitive wilderness consisting of 2400 acres. I well remember the day when Trev and I drove up there. The roads were still in the mapping stage and the terrain was rough. All of a sudden Trev braked his car and came to a jerky stop. He exclaimed: "Just look at that!" Coming down the hillside and just ready to cross the road was a mama quail and her young brood, no bigger than marbles and cuter than cute. Without hesitation they crossed the road in single file right ahead of the car. And not until they were safely disappearing in the brush on the other side did Trev move or speak. Possibly a trivial incident but it has remained in my heart for many years. And it is out of such things that deep and lasting friendships are made.

You might know that to that young Scotch-American from Staten Island, New York, would come romance. A family of three sisters by the name of Daniels came to Carmel. All of them were talented, career girls, Nancy played the violin. Camilla was the scholar of whom we stood in awe because she spoke and wrote Russian. And Marian! She had chosen acting, and had spent several years on the professional stage. Repertoire. Leading and ingenue roles. Shakespeare and other classics. She played in New York, Chicago, Toronto and many other large cities. But Marian became a sufferer from asthma and was obliged to give up her stage career and live very quietly. And what more fitting than for her to choose Carmel for her home?

Marian built a house and got herself a horse — the immortal Mordkin that everybody came to know. And Marian became a superduper horsewoman. She met Trev Shand and romance bloomed. Before long they were married. Then Trev became the proud owner of a horse which he named Chicone. The stable was enlarged, another stall added, and Mordkin had company. The sight of Trev and Marian and their high-steppers cavorting down the Avenue or wandering over the countryside was to be long remembered by all of us who live so much in the past.

As for Mordkin, he deserves a story all his own. He was a great pet and of near human understanding. When Marian was walking home from the village he would come to meet her and walk quietly beside her all the way up Mountain View. If someone joined Marian on the walk home Mordkin would renounce his place and step to the rear. He was a perfect gentleman. Finally he began to stumble, sometimes fell and had difficulty getting to his feet. At last his stall was empty and there was no more Mordkin to nuzzle apples and sugar from the hand of a beloved friend.

Marian Shand's health improved and she and her husband built up the business which they are now placing in other hands.

I have a tender spot in my heart for Trev Shand—very personal. He gave me a boost that landed me in the real estate fraternity. I had returned from Europe — broke — and without a job. My spirits were at a low point when Trev dropped in one day to see me. I plunged into a pool of self-pity and had a good wallow. He was sympathetic but made a very practical suggestion. "Why don't you come into my office? You can take over the rentals. I don't want to have anything to do with them. You can have the whole works to yourself." I jumped at the chance and blithely took over a business in which I had no experience and of which I knew absolutely nothing. That was over thirty years ago and my friendship with the Shands has continued through all this time.

Whenever there was a cause to be promoted or hard work to be done for a public benefit the Shands were always to be counted on for their support. When a controversial question comes up the Shands make up their minds what side they are on and then go to work on it. Carmel and its traditions are foremost with them and they certainly do not approve of any Master Plan.

No hand to duck civic responsibility, Trev served ten years on the Sanitary Board. He and Marian have been active in school campaigns. And Marian has given her talents to local dramatic efforts. In the old days everyone was drafted to work in the Forest Theater even if it was but to carry a spear. And in this connection Marian tells a good story about the sole dramatic role of her spouse. It seems that in one of the Forest Theater plays a long flight of steps led up to the King's palace. Soldiers were stationed in two long lines to guard the entrance of the Prince. Trev was on the bottom step. The elegantly attired Prince entered on the top landing, descended in all his regal splendor. One step. Then another. Another and another. So far safe but now came tragedy. His Royal Highness tripped and fell ingloriously. A gasp from the audience. And than Trev let out with a large and penetrating guffaw. And when the audience recovered from the double shock they joined in.

Sometime ago the Shands bought the old Comins place up the valley. It is a beautiful house with its wide verandas, patios, climbing vines and views of the purple hills. And now that they're free from business pressures they can settle down and enjoy life. The chances are that Trev's hobby, wood-working, will have more of his attention. As for Marian, she confesses that she intends to work in her garden and that she looks forward to sleeping in the mornings as long as she likes.

Marian and Trev called on me recently and what a good time we had jabbering about the "good old times!" I walked with them out to their car and there on the front seat was Pat, their beautiful boxer dog. Marian snapped his leash to his collar, let him out of the car and took him for a short walk. Trev nudged me, winked and said:

"She's nuts about him."

BLOOD

This is Red Cross Fund Drive month, as indicated by the flags flying down the center of Ocean Avenue.

"One of the services your contribution to Red Cross supports is the Blood Program," Helen Heavey, chairman of the Blood Program, points out. "Those persons who have had to receive blood — usually unexpectedly because of surgical or accidental emergency — know full well the life saving power of whole blood transfusions. Many of those same persons, upon recovery, become regular blood donors that others may benefit from this service as did they.

"The availability of all types of blood at all Peninsula hospitals for administration to any resident of our community free of charge is a very valuable asset to all of us.

"We are having a local blood drawing on Thursday, March 13 from 10:00 until 1:30 o'clock at the Red Cross Chapter House and the residents of Carmel surely should support the quota of 120 pints of blood needed to stock our hospital at all times," she urges. "It is imperative that there be more donors to maintain this quota and this service. All residents between the ages of 18 and 60 are asked to become blood contributors next Thursday. This life saving fluid is only obtained from the veins of those public spirited residents who are essentially generous and willing to help another local resident in time of need."

For an appointment to become part of this outstanding community service call MAyfair 4-6921.

CHOSEN FOR BOYS' STATE

Selected on recommendation of the faculty of Carmel High School as a representative for Boys' State this year is Mat Laky, son of Mr. and Mrs. Laszlo Laky of Carmel. Mat, president of the junior class and a member of the student council, will go to Sacramento in late June to participate in the event, which is sponsored by the American Legion. Mat, who is outstanding for his academic record as well as his interest in government and student politics, will be sponsored locally by the Carmel American Legion Post.

APRIL

Wistaria-scented April
Peers over the shoulder of March
With wistful eyes.

Perhaps she is aware of the buds of nostalgia
She will open as she moves
Into many thoughts.

Perhaps she is conscious of the memories
She will awaken as she tip-toes
Across many hearts.

Wistaria-scented April,
Hesitant, pensive,
And infinitely tender.

HEARTHSIDE PANTHER

Grey-coated, with eyes of amber-green,
My cat is sinuous and lean,
So delicate his grace, so pure,
Hearthside panther in miniature.

When I grow weary of the feel
Of man's sharp-angled things of steel,
I take delight in watching him,
So soft of tread, so lithe of limb,
Whose every motion seems to be
Tuned to a soundless melody.

LIFE MOVES TO MUSIC

No wind is moving through the trees,
No car lights flood the lane.
We listen to the silver
Monotone of rain.

The world and all its grim despair
Dim and fade from view.
There is your quiet love for me,
My quiet love for you.

Tomorrow we face the world again,
Its bafflement, its strain.
Tonight life moves to music
And the monotone of rain.

—LUCIA TRENT.

Music On The Peninsula

BY MARY LINDSAY-OLIVER

The children's concerts by the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra, given at King Hall and Salinas, have further proven their value to interest youngsters with the best musical scores, a fact that Ernest Schelling, conductor and composer, envisioned in his pioneer move with the New York Philharmonic in 1924. It was heartwarming to see six or seven hundred children trooping eagerly in to hear what Conductor Millar and the Orchestra would tell them. Even a baby in the arms of a small girl was among them who never said a word! The majority were interested and attentive throughout the performance, which opened with the Frescobaldi Toccata that met an honest and spontaneous applause. Gregory Millar, who seems to enjoy the children, explained the orchestral instruments used and a player of each gave a short solo phrase to show the tone. Flute, piccolo oboe, horns, tuba, clarinet and bassoon were favorites, while Joseph Axup's solo in Mozart's Horn Concerto and Raymond Duste's oboe intrigued them further. All exemplifiers made interesting contributions and enlightened also some grown-ups present.

A surprise with LeRoy Anderson's extraordinary composition for typewriter and orchestra came when percussion player Ann Vander Wyk walked to the front with a typewriter and adroitly manipulated the rhythmic actions and clicks. Some of the music of My Fair Lady was also given, which delighted the youngsters, for the second movement of the Tschaikowsky 5th had been a little heavy for younger children, though the lovely horn melody pleased them.

Mrs Glenrose Bell Jaffee, general chairman of the committee for the Children's Concerts, and her assistants, are to be congratulated on the success and management of the event, and thanks are due the generosity of the players who turned up in full force.

I have just received from Washington a notice from one of the National's committees of which I am still a member. It tells of this year's daily performances to be given for one month at the Pan American Union so that all children in and around the Capital may have an opportunity to attend.

The first of this season's four Chamber Music Concerts was presented Sunday at the Circle Theatre, a much better place for the music than the erstwhile craft center. It was filled with an appreciative audience to hear a program of Pre-Baroque and Baroque compositions from about 1500 to 1750, played by members of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra and others, directed by Gilbert Boyer.

The concert opened with a brass quartet by Josquin des Pres, The King's Fanfare. Handel's Concerto Grosso Op 6 was played ingratiatingly by Gerald Slavich and Eiko Yoshizato, violins, and Mary Dobel, cello, and conducted by Boyer. A Sinfonia by Banchieri, and a double quartet by Gabrieli, were again heard from the brasses, conducted by Lloyd Clapper. Corelli's Cello Sonata gave Mary Dobel's fine tone and bowing an opportunity for musicianly expression with Boyer at the piano. Handel's Concerto for oboe and orchestra with Lloyd Clapper, soloist, was enthusiastically received, and the players recalled.

Following intermission Bach's No. I Concerto for Klavier and String Orchestra was given a strong and rapid performance with Boyer soloist, and Axup conducting. The popular horn player showed much promise. The performance, would, however, have gained with a little less presto. Musicians in addition to those mentioned were Norma de Chiaro, Elizabeth DuVal, David Hagemeyer, Herman Medurn, Harold Nicholas, Charlotte Perry, violinists; Lorell McCann, Marie Sale, viola; Louise Friedhofer-Vadetsky, cello; Edwin Culver, contrabass, and Lydia Bader, klavier, all of whom received a final ovation with Boyer and Axup. The second Chamber Music Concert will be given at the Golden Bough Circle on April 20 with the San Francisco Musical Art Quartet.

John Adams, director of the Record Recitals at the Craft Center, presented Kenneth Ford with the Carmel Jazz Quartet. Life Magazine has given publicity to Teacher Ford's abstract poems, but in as much as his voice was not produced or articulated enough to rise above the music (so-called) few could hear his lines consecutively, so it was too abstract for even those who like abstract poetry! On the bass viol Allen Kaye hugged, tugged and pulled without a single scratch of the bow, and though excruciatingly hollow tone it was a clever manipulation. Trumpeter Joe Incovuia and Guitarist Paul Tovussard sounded a bit more musical at times with Paul Drummond an adequate drummer, though the performance was mostly impromtu on set rhythms and no recognisable construction was evident. Having once given a public talk on The pernicious influence of Jazz, I came away with "the same opinion still" and hoping Adams will stay by good records, though it is always interesting to find out what can be done in this age of undercurrent noises!

Woodwork Shop Open To Adults For Kite Building

March 22 has been set for the Annual Carmel Kite Festival at the high school field at 1:15 o'clock, William Wakefield, recreation director, announced this week. The parade will assemble at Sunset School at 1:00 o'clock and will proceed through town with police and fire department escort.

Prizes, donated by the Carmel Lions Club, will be awarded for six classes of kites, one of them for adults. For their kite building, the latter may use the facilities of the woodshop at the high school Monday and Wednesday evenings when the adult woodwork class meets at 7:30 o'clock.

A week before the festival, the shop at Sunset will be open for kids who wish to build their kites there.

Vincent Torres, Jr., representing the Lions Club, is assisting Mr. Wakefield with the details. Judges have not yet been selected.

WHAT'S DOING
D. D. Muir, your Telephone Manager in Carmel

Care for a look at some unusual phones? Here are a couple of experimental types. You'll agree they're quite a change from the phones you use every day. So we've asked a number of people to try them out at home for a month. In the foreground is a new-style bedroom phone. The phone at left is even more unusual. The dial's built right into the handset. Naturally, it's too early to tell if either of these phones will ever go into regular service. But our aim is to find out what telephone users think of them. For what we learn from tests like this will help set the style of your future telephone.

You know that wire that runs from your phone to the pole outside? It's called a drop wire. With lots of new phones going in, you've probably seen phone men hooking up these wires. Most always, they have a few small pieces left over. Do they throw these pieces away? Not at all! These "leftovers" are put together into lengths of wire we can use somewhere else. Just like a budget-minded housewife, we make good use of our scraps!

"California Conservation Week will be observed throughout the State from March 7 to 14. And this is a good time for all of us to take steps to preserve California's natural resources. Conservation authorities pointed out that Californians all have a big stake in this, and there are many things we as individuals can do. We can support tree-planting programs that beautify cities and rural areas. We can conserve water at both ends of the pipe line. That means protecting water sources—and not wasting water. We can practice "outdoor good manners" and prevent the littering up of cities, roads, camp grounds and countrysides. And we can all give our support to the conservation clubs that are working to safeguard our soil minerals, forest, water and wildlife."

"Not Even In Africa"

Charlotte Townsend and her mother, Mrs. Ruth F. Townsend, are busy getting their house and garden at Carmelo and Santa Lucia Streets in shape after an absence in Europe of 11 years for Charlotte and seven for Mrs. Townsend.

"Not even in Africa is the winter weather as lovely as in Carmel" Charlotte remarked yesterday. She has been a civilian recreation supervisor attached to the Army and Air Force in Austria, Germany and France for the past several years and before that attended school in Switzerland. With her mother, Charlotte has lived on the Riviera and in Paris. "It's so wonderful to be in Carmel again," she says of this town where she spent her childhood and was a Sunset School student.

"Honey comes down week ends from Oakland with her husband Peter Zuber," Charlotte reports about her sister, who also grew up in Carmel.

Janet Goes To Girls' State

Janet Fehring, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Fehring, has received a letter informing her that she has been awarded an American Legion Auxiliary scholarship to attend Girls' State in Davis, June 23-July 1. She was recommended for this honor by the faculty of Carmel High School.

Janet is a junior at Carmel High, student co-chairman for publicity for the coming bond and tax election, and secretary-treasurer of the Ski Club. She has also been junior class secretary, vice president and secretary of the Carmel Junior Statesmen of America chapter and home room representative on the Student Council.

Mrs. Edgar Bissantz, ticket committee chairman, met with general chairman, Mrs. Jimmy Hatlo, at Del Monte Lodge this week to discuss plans for the fashion show luncheon Prelude to Spring which the Monterey County Symphony Guild will sponsor at Del Monte Lodge, March 11, to benefit the Symphony Orchestra. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Edgar Bissantz at MAyfair 4-3427.

Attends Eastern Meetings

Recently returned to her Carmel home from a busy trip east is Dr. Margaret W. Barnes, who left the Peninsula in late January for Des Moines, where she attended a meeting of the Osteopathic Cranial Association, of which she is a member of the board of trustees.

From Iowa she went to Chicago, Washington and New York, arriving there in time for an executive board meeting of the Academy of Applied Osteopathy. Final meeting on her convention-filled tour was the 35th annual session of the Wellesley College Alumnae Council February 6-8. Between meetings she visited friends, including many in her home town of Waltham, Mass.

Carmel Foundation Events

The speaker for the Booklovers at Town House, Monday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock, will be Mr. Nelo Drizari, who will tell of the background of his new novel, Song of Irena. Mr. Drizari is a former editor, a writer of several books, and a contributor to magazines. For some time he was connected with The Voice of America. He is also a painter and has had one-man shows in San Francisco and Oakland. He is Branch President of the California Writers' Club. His new novel, a vigorous adventure story, has its locale in his ancestral country, Albania. As always, the Booklovers' meeting is open to all who are interested in books and writers.

On Wednesday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock Carl Bensberg will present a program of classical songs with Lydia Bader at the piano. Tea will be served following the program.

While she is in Europe, the Carmelite will also visit her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Hale of Geneva, Switzerland.

Art Association Events

Mason Wright is chairman of the new general membership show which opened on March 4 at the Carmel Art Association Galleries. Oils, water colors and sculpture are displayed.

A cocktail buffet will be given at the Galleries on Saturday from 5:00-8:00 o'clock. Invitations have been mailed to active and associate members who will, on this occasion, have the opportunity to meet new officers and board members of the Art Association. Mrs. Jessie MacGregor is chairman for the event, assisted by Leslie Emery, Kathryn Aurner, Mason Wright and General Frank Dorn.

Next meeting of the board of directors of the Association is on March 11 at 7:00 o'clock in the evening at the Galleries when applications for membership will be considered.

Kings Back

Mr. and Mrs. George F. King of Rancho San Carlos are back from a two-and-a-half-week vacation which took them to Palm Desert for a 10-day stay and to Pacific Palisades and San Fernando Valley where they visited friends.

Woman's Club Program

Sven and Anne Reher will bring the romantic atmosphere of old Vienna to the members of the Carmel Woman's Club, their guests and the public Friday evening at 8:00 o'clock at the clubhouse. Husbands of club members will act as ushers.

The Rehers' program will present melodies of the colorful Austrian city and the story behind the music.

Anne Reher holds a master's degree in music. She has also explored the fields of history and philosophy, and is an accomplished writer and speaker.

Sven Reher has studied with some of the finest musicians in Germany, and is an outstanding violinist. He is now under contract with the Twentieth-Century Fox Studio Orchestra. Mr. Reher also teaches history of music in several colleges and universities.

The proceeds of the program will be divided among the Carmel Foundation, the Girl Scouts and the Youth Center.

Honors For Diana

Her father, Roy D. Neeley of Carmel Hills, reported this week on the career of WAVE Diana Neeley, storekeeper first class, recently transferred from Great Lakes, Ill., to the Naval Air Station in Norfolk, Va. Diana received a letter of commendation from the commander of the Great Lakes base for outstanding performance of duty as women's chief master-at-arms.

Diana entered the Navy five years ago, graduated second highest in her class from the Storekeeper School in San Diego. Two of her navy years were spent at Pearl Harbor.

See What You Missed?

Monterey County Symphony enthusiasts are treated to the best in entertainment, but they still miss a lot by not being kids. For instance, take the Saturday morning concert at King Hall for Carmel youngsters when Gregory Millar, conductor - turned - comedian, produced some selections from the score of My Fair Lady in a manner he called "a la Lawrence Welk."

At a high point in the music a burst of soap bubbles rose from the brass section. It was a surprise even to the string sections. The kids loved it.

Meet Karen And Jill

Twin daughters were born February 24 at Peninsula Community Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. John Livingstone. The Carmel photographer and his wife, residents for the past three and a half years, have another daughter, Kim, 4. Also on hand to welcome the newcomers are maternal grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Robert Glen of Carmel. Mr. and Mrs. David Rogoff of Los Angeles are the other set of grandparents. The tiny twins, Karen and Jill, weighed slightly over three and four pounds respectively.

A Sister For Three Boys

Dramatic news in the Donald Smythe household was the arrival on Washington's birthday of Suzanne, first daughter in the family. Brothers are Don Jr., 8; Arthur, 6, and Scottie, almost 4, and great aunts are the Misses May and Martha Stanley of Carmel. Suzanne, weighing seven pounds, one ounce, managed to miss her middle brother's own birthday (February 23) by fifteen minutes. She arrived at Peninsula Community Hospital at a quarter to midnight February 22.

Paynes Have Daughter

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Payne of Carmel Valley have a new daughter, Debra Lea, born at Peninsula Community Hospital February 23. The little girl, who has a brother Donnie, almost 3, weighed seven pounds, 12 ounces. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Dockery and Mrs. Frances Payne, all of Carmel Valley. Her paternal grandfather, Elmer Payne, will visit the newcomer here this weekend from his home in Barstow.

Barker Poetry Reading

Peninsula poet Eric Barker will read poetry, his own and selected works of several other contemporary poets, on Sunday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock in Ring's Restaurant, Monterey. He will include poems from his new, as yet unnamed book, which is to be published in midsummer.

Sunset Potluck Dinner

Sunset members of the Carmel Elementary PTA will hold their annual potluck dinner the evening of March 11 at 6:30 o'clock in the Sunset cafeteria. On the program are a discussion of the school bond and entertainment, with Mrs. Charles K. Felder in charge of hospitality.

Barbecue At High Tide

Friends and fellow workers of John Tucker were his guests at his home, High Tide, Sunday. Assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Gilles, he prepared a barbecue al fresco for Don Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Shelly Kramer, Bruce Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Fry, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Roser, Rudolph Visnich, Alan Brooks and several other friends. Absentee hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Thad Sigourney, who also live at High Tide and helped prepare the party.

Home From Europe

Robin and Wendy Burnham flew home to Pebble Beach from New York in time for Robin to resume her studies at the University of California and Wendy to start the second semester at Santa Catalina School for Girls. They have been traveling in Europe for some months with their mother, Mrs. A. Carol McKenney, Dr. McKenney and their sister, Gray Burnham, the latter three to arrive this week in the Jaguar they purchased abroad.

Sarah Purdy

Requiem Mass was celebrated yesterday at Carmel Mission for Mrs. Sarah Ellene Purdy, who died Saturday evening in a local hospital shortly after she became ill suddenly at her home, Santa Fe and Mountain View Streets.

Survivors include a son, Don Purdy, formerly of Pacific Grove and now of San Francisco; a sister, Mrs. Henry White of Detroit, and four grandchildren, Don, Sarah, Philip and Catherine Purdy, all of San Francisco.

A resident of Carmel for the past seven years, Mrs. Purdy was born April 23, 1901, in Detroit. She was preceded in death by her husband, Hal L. Purdy, in 1945.

Friends who wish to honor Mrs. Purdy's memory may make contributions to St. Peter's Chapel Seminary, 1675 Grand Avenue, San Rafael.

Have New Daughter

Mr. and Mrs. John James Burns have a new daughter, Jo Anne, born Sunday at Monterey Hospital.

George Yates Gives PTA Breakdown On 50 Cent Tax

The first official breakdown of probable usage of the proposed 50-cent override tax for the Carmel School District was presented at the Parent-Teachers Association meeting Tuesday evening by George Yates, school board member.

In other action the PTA officially honored John Farr, Carmel High School music instructor and longtime supporter of Carmel and Peninsula music activities, with the annual life membership award, presented by Col. Richard Osborne.

The tax figures, based on the assumption that both the bond and the override tax are passed, were presented by Mr. Yates in six categories. The money would be used to pay for:

1. Additional professional staff of 13 teachers and one nurse, $70,000, 21 cents of the 50-cent tax.
2. More non-professional staff including janitors, clerks, bus drivers, $30,000, 9 cents.
3. Reimbursement of federal aid (based on assumption that federal aid for students with federal aid-connected parents is not extended this year), $22,000, 6 cents.
4. Purchase of land for a new high school site, the land to be bought on a lease-purchase arrangement over 10 years, $14,000 per year, 4 cents.
5. Purchase of one new school bus (to be used to transport students from Carmel Valley) on a lease-purchase arrangement over five years, $5,000 per year, 1 cent.
6. Salary increases for all employees in the district, $29,000, 9 cents.

Total of the six items is $170,000, 50 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Mr. Yates added that if federal aid is extended on the students mentioned, the $22,000 earmarked for that purpose would probably be used to pay for the bus in one year, to increase payment on the new land, to apply on the salary increases or a combination of the three.

Vocational Information Offered By Rotary

The Carmel Rotary Club will pioneer in a different kind of community service the evening of March 11 at 7:30 o'clock when it offers its first vocational information session for students and their parents at Carmel High School.

According to Robert U. Ricklefs, headmaster of Robert Louis Stevenson School and chairman of the new project, the service will supplement the present school-sponsored vocational guidance program by offering students a chance to meet and discuss their own occupational inclinations with Rotarians now working in 20 widely varied fields.

The first evening's panel will include Dr. T. Floyd Bell on medicine; Dr. Charles N. Pearson on optometry, Dr. James B. Finley on dentistry; Thomas E. Tonkin on hospitals and nursing, and Dr. Milton H. Shutes on professional writing, with Doctors Harry J. Templeton, R. A. Kocher, Joseph B. McCarthy and Howard W. Zellhoefer as additional panel members. Other occupational fields will be discussed on succeeding Tuesday evenings. All Carmel students and parents are invited.

Carmel Choirboy Home To Autograph Latest Jazz Disk

that included Las Vegas and ended at the Fairmont in San Francisco; on TV in the Tennessee Ernie show (last year.) Now, every week on the Rosemary Clooney and Dinah Shore TV programs; in the new 20th Century Fox movie, Sing, Boy, Sing; and this week travelling around northern part of the state for his record distributors, Fanfare. He arrived here Tuesday after a TV show and autographing party in Sacramento; visited Carmel High and sang with the Men's Glee Club, gave a radio broadcast from his mother's restaurant (closed for two weeks) Tuesday afternoon; was guest of honor at an autographing party at Abinante's in Monterey Wednesday afternoon, sandwiched in interviews at the local broadcasting stations meanwhile.

He flies south today for a 'teen age television show in Hollywood and rehearsals for the Dinah Shore Show. Early next week he'll be up in San Francisco for more radio and TV interviews and autograph parties.

He says he's a baritone, again. Better for jazz singing than tenor. He'll be making three more records, shortly. Meanwhile, Carmelites are buying his important first at all the music stores, even those natives who regard jazz with suspicion. They want to hear Robert Jensen's voice again even if it is labeled Jerry Madison.

"Why did you change your name, Bob?" they ask him when they run into him around town. "It makes you hard for us to keep track of you, and what's wrong with Robert Jensen?"

And Bob explains, "I like Robert Jensen, but there was another Robert Jensen in the entertainment field in Hollywood when I got there so I had to change."

Chic Sale, Jr. Moves Jack And Jill Shop

Mr. and Mrs. Chic Sale, Jr., owners of the Jack and Jill children's apparel shop, have leased new premises in the recently-completed Linsley Building, on the west side of Dolores Street, just south of Ocean Avenue. In future the shop will be known as Chic Sale, Jr. - Jack and Jill. As in their previous Seven Arts Court shop, the Sales will stock nationally known lines of children's clothing, infants through size 14.

The Sales are the first occupants of their new premises, neighbors to Evelyn Young's House of Flaire which until now has been the sole tenant of the handsome contemporary structure, completed last August for Mrs. George Linsley, Jr. by Carmel architects Burde, Shaw and Kearns Associates.

The Sales have added merchandise cabinets and counters in a warm greige hue keyed to the contemporary styling of their premises. Their large scale Jack and Jill nursery rhyme mural, painted by Charlotte Morton, has been moved from the Seven Arts Court. Extensive cabinet work has been installed for the display of children's merchandise, and window and seating equipment have been added.

A grand opening is planned by Chic Sale, Jr. for later in the spring. He expects, as well, to add other related lines of children's merchandise to those already stocked.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

How spiritual understanding of true manhood brings new health and freedom will be explained Sunday at Christian Science services.

The Lesson-Sermon entitled "Man" will include the following passage from the Bible (Psalms 16:5, 6): "The Lord is the portion of mine inheritance and of my cup: thou maintainest my lot. The lines are fallen unto me in pleasant places; yea, I have a goodly heritage."

Readings from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include the following (317:18): "The understanding of his spiritual individuality makes man more real, more formidable in truth, and enables him to conquer sin, disease, and death."

The Golden Text is from Psalms (37:37): "Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright: for the end of that man is peace."

a letter that the property owner on the south east corner of Second and San Antonio had put up a metal and wire mesh fence and shouldn't there be an ordinance prohibiting the use of unattractive materials in fences?

Council referred the problem to the Planning Commission.

Council approved expenditure of around $74 to send three firemen, Roy Walls, James Belvail and Delbert Wermuth, Sr., to a training session in Berkeley, March 10-15; and $64 to pay costs of City Clerk Larry Rose's attending a retirement system seminar in Berkeley, March 20-21.

Street Commissioner James Buffington reported that the planting is completed at lower Ocean Avenue and ready for inspection by the citizens. "It looks very nice," he said.

Mr. Buffington also recommended that the dead fronds be cut out of the three palm trees at San Carlos near Fifth and the ivy growing on them be restrained by trimming and training on a frame.

Council agreed to the removal of a redwood tree to give W. Fremier a new driveway to his Cheerful Tortoise. The city will plant a redwood in the old driveway.

The joint committee recommended against the proposed driveway access to the Philip Wilson, Jr., Pine Terrace on Third Avenue because it would scar city property and create a traffice hazard. The report was referred to the planning commission to consider first. Council will have last say.

Floyd Adams reported on cost of repairing the Forest Theater caretaker cottage. Council couldn't decide whether they wanted to put in a cement or wood floor, or tear the whole thing down and be done with it. They finally decided that they'd postpone action until the next budget session. Meanwhile, the street department will remove the plumbing fixtures. Mr. Adams also reported that the Forest Theatre grounds had been cleaned up very neatly. So the Forest Theatre Guild can keep their dollar a year lease on the theatre for another year. Last meeting the council threatened the Guild with eviction if they didn't tidy up the premises. This is an annual event.

Mayor Chitwood got the council approval of a letter to S. F. B. Morse in appreciation of his dedication of Pescadero Canyon, which is adjacent to Carmel, for preservation in its natural state. "It is hoped that other public-spirited citizens will exercise similar foresightedness in the preservation of the Peninsula's natural beauty."

The argument against right to work initiative measure which will appear on the April municipal election ballot was worked over and approved. The council "takes no stand on the right to work per se but notes that legal opinions indicate such legislation is the prerogative of state or federal governments." Then they quote several paragraphs of arguments against right to work furnished by labor leaders, because labor wouldn't have any other way of presenting their side on the sample ballot. The proponents of the initiative can express their views.

Mayor Chitwood had drafted a letter to the proper post office authority (Clerk Rose is to find who) asking that the next time the post office moves, the council be informed and consulted. The location of the post office affects the traffic patterns, the letter points out. In the past, the change of post office location in Carmel has been a private transaction between a citizen who has a building to rent or is willing to build one and the post office officials, he said. It wasn't necessary to mention that every time the post office changes location, the business district flows in that direction. Property values soar where it goes and drop where it has been.

Fred Strong, acting postmaster, told the Pine Cone yesterday afternoon that his lease isn't up until October 1961. He hadn't thought of moving. He could use more space, he said, but the owner, James Lee, has plans for enlarging the building.

Monterey Peninsula Civic Ballet Company received permission to use the Forest Theater May 2 and 3 and for rehearsals preceding the performance. The council approved the Girl Scouts' use of the theater on March 9 for a program celebrating the forty-sixth anniversary of their organization.

The council approved business license transfer from Robert B. and Bernice F. Bendrick, Pacifica, to Peter J. Wangoe, Silver Belle, Dolores Street between Fifth and Sixth; also, from Frank E. Castagna, Castagna's Prescription Pharmacy to James Lloyd Womble and Inez Womble, Womble's Pharmacy, Ocean and San Carlos. Sign designs were approved for The Linen Shop, Ruth P. McMenamin, Monte Verde and Ocean; Bianca's, Bianca Kulka, San Carlos between Fifth and Sixth; Le Gourmet et Les Cadeaux, Robert Adams, Pine Inn.

Now We Have A Hot Potato Committee

straightening, hard surfaces, curbs and gutters. Eighth in the Sunset School block is an example. The Carmel co-operative plan is black top going around the trees whenever possible.

Mrs. Clifford Cook, also a Torres Street property owner and volunteer member of the Eighth Street Protective Association, asked the council how many complaints they had besides Mr. Moody's. Council said two verbal ones. Mrs. Cook said she'd contribute, too, if it came to a question of staving off a major street improvement disaster but Several hundred residents in the vicinity use Eighth Street in apparent contentment. Why all this pother over three complaints?

Mayor John Chitwood thought that if people on Torres and other streets intersecting Eighth were willing to help the Eighth Street property owners with the co-operative plan, the Eighth Streeters would consider it. He appointed Councilmen James Buffington and Allen Knight to a committee to consult with the property owners.

Porter Hall also wrote the council a firm letter. Since the council had opened Santa Rita Street near Fifth to save the price of a fire plug, and hadn't consulted the property owners about it, he thought the city should bear all the cost of improving the opened portion, which has become a problem, and not expect the property owners to contribute on the co-operative plan.

The mayor appointed Councilmen Buffington and Knight to a committee to see what they could do with the other property owners.

The PG & E asked permission to put a pole at Camino and Twelfth, so they could string power lines to a new dwelling. The council said no. The property owner had cut down his trees, so now it looks too bare around there for a power pole. The mayor appointed Councilmen Knight and Buffington as a committee to consult with the P G & E and the property owner about having the power lines underground.

The above items concluded Mr. Buffington's and Mr. Knight's hot potato assignments for that session.

The council said yes to Danny Garcia. The former occupant of Danny's premises on Sixth and Dolores used a motorcycle scooter for deliveries. Danny asked permission to widen the driveway to accommodate his delivery vehicle, a Volkswagen. —W. C.
